

September 2009

Greetings from the Inselhaus B&B!

Fall is just around the corner, and that means my husband, Karl is getting ready to harvest corn and soybeans. He loves his profession. Moreover, I love mine!

We have been in the B&B for 6 years. To run a B&B in the US is different then in Germany. In Germany, guest will stay two to three weeks and go to the beach every day. They would come home looking all rested, and sometimes have sunburn. Here most of our guest stay only 1 to 2 days. They come to Macomb to conduct business or visit family and friends.

Twice a year we have a guest from Vienna, Austria and she stays for two weeks with us. This year she brought a friend and will have a photo show on September 11 and 12. We are looking forward to that. Please, if you are in Macomb, stop by and see her photos at the Inselhaus.

Many of our guests have noticed that we have the Inselhaus for sale; we have not sold the house and business. It might take several years for that to happen.

We are still taking reservations, and are already booked out for WIU's graduation in May of 2010.

The newest addition to our website is the online reservation. Now you do not have to call or email us anymore. It is easy, too. Check it out the next time you want to reserve a room at the Inselhaus.

We are looking forward to seeing you soon in Macomb and at the Inselhaus B&B.
